

Into the Fields of Iaru

Curious about how the ancient Egyptians cared for their dead? The Archaeological Museum invites you to learn about ancient Egyptian funerary objects during our next -

Museum Chat

Thursday, March 15th from 12:15-12:45

In the Archaeological Museum, Gilman 150

From 12:15-12:30, Dr. Betsy Bryan, Alexander Badawy Professor of Egyptian Art and Archaeology, explores the history of the Ptolemaic mummy, a mummy mask, and an ancient ivory wand on view in the museum.

From 12:30-12:45, Egyptology graduate student Maggie Bryson will discuss her ongoing research on an ancient painted wood figure, once part of a group of artifacts that would have accompanied the dead into the afterlife.

The ancient objects discussed will be available for museum visitors to examine up close.

For more information, visit our website:
<http://archaeologicalmuseum.jhu.edu/>
<https://www.facebook.com/JohnsHopkinsArchaeologicalMuseum>